BULLETIN #1

CINDY NELSON
Regulatory Agency Liaison

"I'm here!" As promised you now have a state regulatory agency "expert" at your beck & call. I have worked for the BMV in various capacities and have a thorough knowledge of title statues, regulations, policies & procedures as well as dealer licensing rules and regulations. I served on the board of the National Odometer Enforcement Association and was commonly referred to as "the odometer queen" by the license branches and bureau staff. I have advised and trained title and dealer directors and supervisors.

What does this mean to you? You don't have to wait in line at the license branch or stay on the telephone for extended periods of time to have your questions answered. Just call me! If I don't know the answer, I know who to talk to and how to get it. In most cases, I will be able to respond to your questions immediately. So don't hesitate to call.

As mentioned, we would like to schedule and hold seminars in the near future. I have found, in the past, that a well attended seminar deals with issues of interest to its participants. The only way I can achieve this is to ask for your ideas or concerns for topics at these seminars.

I have spoken at previous BMV seminars on topics such as the following:

- off-site licenses
- designee license plates
- interim license plates
- odometer readings & statements
- title (or C of O) "switches"
- power of attorney concerns
- title corrections
- NMVTIS (National Motor Vehicle Title Information System)

I want the ADAI seminars to be beneficial & valuable to it's members. Won't you help me by taking a few minutes to write down the things you'd like to see discussed in your seminars.
